THE JUDITH ADELE AGENTIS CHARITABLE FOUNDATION CONT...

A portion of the funds from JAACF will also support the first Train-the-Trainer Palliative Care Partnership Program under the direction of Dr. Cris Johnson, Medical Director at St. Luke's VNA Home Health and Hospice. "We are honored to be at the forefront in developing these hospice and palliative care education programs here in Pennsylvania," said Agentis. The mission of the newly established fellowship program is to prepare qualified committed and caring nurse practitioners and physician assistants with the clinical silks and academic expertise to become future leaders in hospice and palliative support care.

In early 2020, JAACF board members voted to expand the mission of the non-profit to found The JAACF Palliative Care Education Fund. Then, in 2021, amid the pandemic, JAACF donated an additional $10,000 to certify health care workers and nurses in palliative care at St. Luke's.

JAACF was founded in 2013 by Agentis after his wife, Judith, of 47 years, passed away at Hospice House. Agentis began JAACF, a 501c3 non-profit, to help fill the need for nourishing meals delivered to hospice house staff, families, and patients. JAACF has delivered more than 20,000 nourishing meals to St. Luke's Hospice House on Black River Road in Bethlehem, PA.
